

Sweepstakes winner in the Lion Oil company's recent $1,000 scholarship competition was Bobbie Louise Smith of Senatobia, Miss., writing on the subject "What Freedom Means."

Here's a piece to make you proud that you are an American:
WHAT FREEDOM MEANS
By Bobbie Louise Smith

I am an average 15-year-old girl, the eldest of five children in a typical American family. My father is a businessman whose income provides comforts, but few luxuries. Even so, my opportunities are boundless, my heritage complete. For into freedom I was born, and through freedom I shall live.

In order that I may further express this feeling, let us imagine we are elevated high above the town in which I live. From this vantage point we can see how freedom works — in, around, and through us.

It is early morning. The sun is just tinting the horizon. Morning stars fade. Around us are cautious birdnotes, while in the distance a dog barks. We hear the clinking of milk bottles as a classmate works his way from door to door; close behind comes the thud of the morning paper tossed on the front porch by another whistling classmate — both of whom could become President of our country.

Opening the paper we would find drama, finance, politics, war news, comedy, tragedy. We would read it all.

More lights go on. Birdnotes soar. Dew drops sparkle. The wonderful aroma of bacon, coffee and toast reaches us. Each family sits down to breakfast, heads bow hastily but reverently. Another day begins.

Mother hustles dad off to work, and other men go to theirs — each according to his talents and capabilities. "Private Enterprise," we call it. Dad says we must always keep it so.

Children go to school where warm buildings, hot lunches, free books, and Christian teachers make them feel important — wanted! English, mathematics, history, science, speech, band choir, and athletics provide a day's schedule.

The sun sinks lower and the homeward trek begins for young and old. Church chimes float on the evening air, reminding each that no day is complete without the lifting of one's thoughts to the Maker and Giver of all.

Flowers perfume the early darkness. Supper's had, dishes done, sleepy tots kissed goodnight. Dad reads, mother sews — or neighbors drop in. We kids study or listen to the radio. The news comes on; some good, some bad, but I know that things will come out right. I've been taught that Freedom, Justice, and Righteousness shall prevail.

Why shouldn't all others have the deep security I feel, and dream the lovely exciting dreams of each new tomorrow? Why should others have to live in fear and doubt when I have faith and confidence? They lack the freedom that is the breath of my spirit, the scope of my being, and the wings of my soul. Oh, that they too could say in their last waking moments: "My Country, tis of thee, Sweet Land of Liberty."

Please, God, let this wonderful Liberty come to every country—not just to mine.

And Thine be the Glory, forever!

Predicts 240 Will Die Over Holiday

CHICAGO (UP) — The National Safety Council predicted today that 240 persons will be killed on the nation's highways during the Memorial Day weekend starting at 6 p. m. tonight.

The expected death rate would be as bad, and perhaps worse, than that of Memorial Day holidays in the past, a council spokesman said.

Exact comparisons were not possible because this was the first 2-day Memorial Day holiday since the council started keeping casualty records on the period in 1946, the spokesman said.

Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said the predicted death rate "cannot be taken lightly."

"We hope the estimate is too high, and it will be if every one looks upon Memorial Day as an opportunity to honor the dead by projecting the living," he said.

Hopes for a light holiday death toll were dampened by the safety council's report that traffic deaths last month set an all-time record.

Highway deaths claimed 2,890 lives — 10 per cent over last year's April and topping the 2,630 records set in 1952 and 1941.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol took Memorial Day precautions by ordering all eight of its patrol districts to use radar units. Officials hoped the patrol's radar machines, airplane, unmarked black cars and official cars would cut down the death rate in the state during the weekend.

U. S. Catholics Total 30 Million

NEW YORK, (AP)—Roman Catholic church membership in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii has risen to 30,425,015 — 1,017,495 above last year—the 1953 Catholic Directory showed today.

Christine Not Concerned

LONDON, (INS)—Christine Jorgensen, "Joan's" picture-taking in festive London today, apparently unperturbed by medical reports which seemed to cast doubt on her muchpublicized "sex change."

Three Danish doctors, writing in the current Journal of the American Medical Association, said their treatment of an unidentified case did not name the patient. But the description and dates appeared to fit Christine.

The former GI who underwent prolonged operations in Denmark declared that "the doctors know more than I do, but they don't know everything."

She said she had spoken to her doctors in Copenhagen and knew they were making a report on the case, Christine added: "I've still kept my sense of humor."

She said she was taking three-dimensional color pictures of London and is "thrilled to death" to be in the British capital.

Marine Just Gets Another Girl Friend

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (UP)—A young marine who returned from a Communist prison camp to learn his "girl" loved someone else announced today he's found another sweetheart and is going to marry her.

Cpl. Lionel E. Peterson, 21, who had only 30 days' leave to recover from the shock of learning that his steady girl was engaged to another man, said he's got over it since he started going out with a brunette student nurse named Dolores Lawson.

"We're going to be married," he said.

His mother, Mrs. Hazel Peterson, said "she's a very, very nice girl and we're happy about the whole thing."

The tall, quiet Marine spent six months in a Communist prisoner of war camp before he was released last April. He came out with a maimed right foot and a yearning to see his girl back in Black River Falls—Odana Stevenson.

He told newsmen in Tokyo he'd never exactly proposed to Odana, but "I'm going to get married."

Before he could make the call, Miss Stevenson said, the answer would be "no."

She'd fallen in love with somebody else, she said. She married the other man, Douglas Oliver, last May 8.

Ike and Taft Disputes Bring Guessing

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Every time President Eisenhower and Sen. Taft disagree on the record the guessing game begins again: Does this mean a split between them?

At times the relationship between the President and the Ohio Republican who is his party's leader in the Senate must have been trying on both men. It has had its ups and downs.

But they haven't split yet. And there's no reason to believe they will after their latest difference, on Korea. It would probably be disastrous for the party if they did.

This is the party's first chance to perform after 20 years in the political wilderness. The Republicans control Congress with only the slimmest kind of majority over the Democrats.

The next congressional elections are in 1954. If the Republicans split into Taft and Eisenhower factions, which would paralyze any party program, disgusted voters might call the Democrats back.

Eisenhower, with great patience, has leaned over backwards to get along not only with Taft but the entire Congress.

Less obvious, because not publicly known, are the compromises, if any, which Taft may have made with Eisenhower in the closed-door, White House conferences which the President regularly holds with Republican leaders.

What compromises Eisenhower may have made at those conferences are not known, either.

But publicly, Taft, who seems more emotional than the President has exhibited less concern for Eisenhower's feelings and opinions than Eisenhower has shown for him.

The Durkin case was an example. Martin Durkin, a life-long Democrat, was a union official who wanted the Taft-Hartley Labor Act repealed. When Eisenhower, as a gesture of good will toward labor, picked Durkin as secretary of labor, Taft reacted with a quick and public "Incredible!"

Would this mean a split? The guessing game got started afresh. It had died down a bit after going great guns in those weeks following the Republican convention where Eisenhower beat Taft for the presidential nomination.

But Taft put a quick chill on this kind of speculation. When Durkin's name came up in the Senate for confirmation, Taft voted for him.

Taft and Eisenhower seemed to hit it off all right. Besides the regular White House meetings, Taft even traveled to Georgia to play golf with the President.

Senators to Study MSA Liquidation

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Two key members said today the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will study closely a recommendation to liquidate the Mutual Security Agency (MSA) and place all foreign aid within the State Department.

A unanimous proposal to make the shift has come from 11 teams of businessmen who, at the request of MSA director Harold E. Stassen, surveyed first hand the U. S. foreign aid program in nine European and five Far Eastern nations.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said after hearing testimony from three of the 11 teams that they made out "quite a case." He also said he thought Stassen could work as well with Secretary of State Dulles from the security agency as he could within the State Department.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) put it this way: "I think the committee cannot completely ignore the unanimous recommendation of all these teams. Weight will have to be given their proposal."

Dulles and Stassen returned to Washington yesterday from a 12-day tour of their own, reporting they had "laid a new foundation for friendship" between the U. S. and countries they visited.

"Wherever we went," Dulles said, "the Communists sought to disrupt our mission and prevent it from achieving its intended purpose. Everywhere they failed."

Dulles said he and Stassen will make a full report to President Eisenhower and Congress soon. He also said he would have more to say to "the American people," mentioning perhaps through a radio and television broadcast.

London so Crowded for Coronation that Floating Hotel Arranged for Guest

By HAL BOYLE

LONDON, (AP)—Coronation child:

Many Americans have the idea next week's coronation may be the last in British empire history, and some English hold their view, too.

"The queen is young and will have a long reign, but will the throne survive after her?" one said. "After all times are changing, and we are changing with them."

"This has been a century of war, privation and suffering for Britain's common people. And the contrast between their own pinched way of life and the pomp and pageantry of the royal family stirs some to tumble, and questions: 'Is it worth the cost?'"

Emrys Hughes, a Laborite Welshman, startled the House of Commons last summer by proposing that the monarchy be ditched and Buckingham Palace turned into an apartment house. But the shocked Conservatives went right ahead and voted the usual annual royal budget of $1,336,000.

They also refused a Laborite demand that the yearly allowance of the Duke of Edinburgh be chopped from $112,000 to $28,000.

Hughes was so annoyed at the coronation festival he refused even to stay in town this week and look at the decorations. He stormed off to Scotland, saying he wouldn't return "until this jamboree is over." However, if he left an empty seat behind, no one has found it.

London is so crowded that they even have arranged for a floating hotel to care for visitors who can't find a bed ashore. It is the

Memorial Day Ceremonies to Honor War Dead

By The Associated Press

The United States, mindful of prolonged and dreary fighting still going on in Korea, honors in Memorial Day ceremonies today those who fought and died in past battles.

Big cities and small towns stage parades and memorial services while families of those still fighting pray their men will be home for more thankful exercises another year.

In Arlington National Cemetery President Eisenhower is to place a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The President then plans to attend Arlington National Cemetery memorial exercises but will not make a speech.

Similar solemn services were the theme for the day in cemeteries throughout the land.

There were signs that the past bitterness of war is being forgotten.

Individual Confederate flags flattered over Confederate graves for the first time at Rock Island Arsenal in Illinois. These Confederate soldiers buried on Northern soil has died while held as prisoners.

In Battle Creek, Mich., German flags were placed over 20 graves of Germans who died as prisoners of war at Fort Custer during World War II.

The flags were obtained from the West German government by the Gen. George A. Custer American Legion post. In answering the post's appeal for German flags, Chancellor Adenauer said his government was "deeply moved by your intention to remember German soldiers' graves."

Living war heroes shared Memorial Day honors.

In Miami Fla., the world's second leading MIG killer, 23-year-old Capt. Manuel J. Fernandez Jr., was in for a warm welcome from his home town. The program included a parade, reception and the traditional presentation of the keys to the city.

For many citizens the day also signals the start of the summer season. They headed for beaches, golf courses and ball parks.

Holiday weekenders crowded trains and buses and jammed highways in their automobiles.

Mother Fined $200, Jailed After Fight

EL DORADO, (AP)—The mother of a high school girl was fined $200 and given a 30-day jail sentence yesterday following a fist fight involving a teacher who had lectured the girl on sex.

A charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor was dismissed against the teacher, Miss Roseanna Paschall. Two of the mother's sisters were fined on assault charges.

Municipal Judge J. G. Ringstad fined Mrs. E. M. Reynolds $100 on charges of assault and disturbing the peace.

"When teachers who discipline students can't be protected in the schools might as well be closed," Mrs. Reynolds said.

Mrs. Reynolds, free on a $350 appeal bond, said Miss Paschall had confiscated a "questionnaire" from her 14-year-old daughter, Beverly, and had taken the girl to the teacher's automobile for a discussion on sex.

The questionnaire was entitled "20 Facts of Life."

Mrs. Reynolds said she was called by the school principal and asked if her daughter was "the leader of a vice ring" in the El Dorado High School.

The climax of the affair was a conference between Miss Paschall, other school officials and Mrs. Reynolds.

Miss Paschall said that Mrs. Reynolds asked her to step into the hall prior to the conference for a discussion and when the teacher refused, the mother began to hit her with her fists.

Mrs. Reynolds' two sisters, Mrs. J. L. Spears and Mrs. Kelvin Wisinger, her mother-in-law and Mrs. Spear's husband became involved in the altercation—together with a school official, Mrs. Meri Cunningham.

Mrs. Reynolds said Miss Paschall "drew back her fist as if to strike me so I quickly stepped forward, removed her glasses and hit her."

The teacher denied this and Howard Elder, school principal, said he did not ask Mrs. Reynolds if her daughter was involved in a vice ring.

Mrs. Spears, who was fined $50 each on charges of assault and disturbing the peace, said the case would be appealed.

Mrs. Wisinger was fined $50 for assault.

A charge of assault against Spears was dismissed.

Threats Made to Pull ROK Divisions Out

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL, (AP)—The acting prime minister of South Korea threatened Friday to pull ROK divisions from the U. N. Command, freeing them for independent military action, if negotiators sign an armistice based on the latest Allied proposal.

Pyun Yung Tai told newsmen South Korea also is prepared to use its army to block any landing of troops from five neutral nations to guard Red prisoners of war who refuse to go home.

"In order to block these attempts, we are ready to use our armed forces and we would even be willing to shed blood in fighting them," Pyun said.

South Korea's rebellion against the U. N. truce proposal mounted steadily as the time neared for negotiators to return to Panmunjom Monday after a week-long recess. The Communists are expected to answer the proposal handed to them in secret session last Monday.

The Reds reportedly turned down at least part of the plan on the spot, but silence from the Poling Red radio indicated to some observers that high-level discussions may be under way.

U. S. Diplomats and officers of the U. N. command were said to be deeply concerned over the bitter South Korean Revolt. One source said Allied officials are devoting every effort to quiet the clamor before negotiations are resumed.

Ellis O. Briggs, U. S. ambassador to South Korea, flew Saturday to the ROK naval base at Chinhae near Pusan where, with President Syngman Rhee, he will attend naval academy graduation exercises.

Briggs has been dealing directly with the fiery, 78-year-old Rhee and has conferred with him at least twice since the Allied proposal was given to the Communists. Rhee's warning of possible bloodshed if "foreign troops" land in South Korea to guard prisoners followed a similar threat from Maj. Gen. Choi Duk Shin, South Korea's delegate to the U. N. truce delegation.

In a letter delivered Thursday to L. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., senior Allied negotiator, Choi said he could not assure the Allies that there will be "no unexpected violent actions" against such troops.

Rhee and other South Korean officials have threatened to fight on alone if the U. N. agrees to any armistice which leaves Korea divided.

The U. N. proposal for breaking the long deadlock over prisoner exchange, last major barrier to a truce, has not been made public officially. But in South Korea, officials have divulged many details.

The plan reportedly provides that all of the 48,500 North Korean and Chinese prisoners who refuse to go home will be turned over in Korea to a commission comprising India, Switzerland, Sweden, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Reds then would be given 90 days to try to change the prisoners' minds about returning home. A post-armistice political conference would try to settle the future of those still refusing repatriation, and if it did not succeed, POWs still in custody would be turned over to the U. N. General Assembly.

Gunner Tells of Slaughter

By FORREST EDWARDS

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP)—"It was just like a big slaughter," the weary tank gunner said grimly. "Every time we would hit the top of Vegas part of a body would go flying somewhere, a piece this way and a piece that way."

Marine Sgt. William J. Costello of Chicago, was resting briefly after firing high velocity shells into Red troops swarming up the slopes of Outpost Vegas in Western Korea.

The Marine tanks were perched on the main Allied line, firing on Vegas, defended by bayonet-wielding Turks.

Rep. Mills Thinks Trade Deals Dead

By HOWARD SUTTLE NEW ERA

WASHINGTON.—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, Kennett, told his colleagues today that he believes the extension of the Trade Agreements Act is as "dead as Hector's pup" so far as this session of the Congress is concerned, "unless the president himself arrives on the scene with a resuscitation pump."

Mills, who is the third ranking Democrat on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, and who has received steadily more and more recognition as an authority on tariff matters and trade conditions, knows probably as much about the present posture of the Simpson bill to extend the trade agreements act for one year as anybody in the House, not barring Rep. Richard M. Simpson, Pennsylvania, the author of the legislation, or Rep. Daniel A. Reed, chairman of the Committee himself.

Coming as he does from one of the greatest agricultural states in the Union, and one whose magnificent cotton crop alone has its domestic price more or less determined by the export surplus, the Kennett congressman has watched with increasing concern the drop of 35 percent in export demand for our agricultural commodities, in the past year. Whatever the cause, Mills doesn't think this is any time to be increasing new trade barriers or to be abandoning any instrumentalities we already have of bolstering foreign trade.

"Asleep Do Not Disturb"

In spite of the fact that the House Ways and Means Committee closed its protracted hearings on the Simpson bill on May 19th, experts and attaches of the committee "have no idea when there will be a report," and one member of the majority pretty high up said "the bill was asleep and not to be disturbed." That generally is the attitude of the high tariff Republican members of the Committee.

And that may be what they seek. But it may be that the very determined gentleman down at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, upon whose coat-tails most of them ride to office, has different ideas.

President Eisenhower in his message to the Congress of April 7th recommended "interim action by the Congress extending the trade agreements act for one year," pending a review of the entire tariff and foreign trade situation by a joint committee to be set up by Congress. The Senate has already agreed to create its part of that joint committee, and its Finance Committee is waiting for the House to act on the Simpson trade agreements extension bill, promising swift action once it gets to the Senate.

critical moment in the Korean truce talks, suggested this country get rid of its United Nations allies, Eisenhower had to take a definite public stand. Silence could have been interpreted as endorsement.

So at his news conference yesterday Eisenhower rejected Taft's thinking with a flat "No," which he then followed with a lengthy explanation carefully stated not to hurt Taft's feelings.

Rain Predicted For Coronation Tuesday

LONDON (AP)—Occasional rain is officially predicted for coronation day, June 2, in London.

The Air Ministry today issued this special long-range forecast: "Weather is likely to be changeable, with occasional rain or showers at times, particularly in the east and north. But there will also be some bright periods."

"Thus the weatherman held out hope that Tuesday may have dry periods during Queen Elizabeth's procession to and from Westminster Abbey."

The weather is the great impediment of the big day. Everyone expects the Queen and others to carry off their roles with precision and glory. But the weather so many times plays the villain in Britain's pageantry that weather forecasts decided to announce their prediction as far in advance as their exhaustive research could permit.

DOROTHY DIX

Matter of Dating

Dear Miss Dix: Danny and I have been going together for several months and, although we don't go steady, he takes me out every Saturday night. As long as I keep Saturday night for him, he doesn't care if I see other boys. I feel I could learn to love him in time, but, to be sure, I'd like to date others. On the two or three occasions when I have done so, I've lied to Danny about how I was going to spend those evenings. I feel that, contrary to what he says, he wouldn't like it if he knew I went out with someone else.

C. C. Answer: It seems scarcely possible that three children so young could be disposed of so thoroughly almost every evening without arousing talk. If you have stated the facts correctly, however, some steps should be taken to protect the youngsters. Their father certainly should be told of the situation, though how it has escaped his attention until now is a mystery. Be sure your own motives are sincere, and that you interference is warranted.

Continue Other Dates
Answer: Why not take Danny at his word and be perfectly frank about your other dates? You're doing the right thing by going out with other boys, since Danny does not monopolize your time, and doesn't expect to. If he does have any objections, meet them as they come along, but don't lie.

Dear Miss Dix: Our senior prom is coming up and I'm in a dilemma over it. I've been going steady with Steve for the last two years, but hesitate to invite him to the prom since he is careless about his appearance. He never bothers about his appearance when he takes me out—just shows up in his blue jeans. Joel is the other boy I could ask, but he refuses to go unless I give Steve up entirely. Should I make the break with Steve or continue to be embarrassed over his appearance?

M. V. Answer: If you are very much in love with Steve, breaking with him would only make you miserable, but I gather from your letter that your emotions are not too deeply involved. Any boy who sincerely cares for a girl would have the consideration to dress neatly when he takes her out. He should be the embarrassed one, when he notes that you are attractively clad while he has given no thought to his appearance. His actions belie any declarations of respect or devotion; released by Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Korean Vet Kidnaped His Sweetheart

VINITA, Okla. (UPI)—A 32-year-old Korean war veteran told officers here today he kidnaped his former sweetheart in Indiana at gunpoint two days ago "so I could take her to California and marry her."

He was halted near here by Oklahoma officers after his girl companion slipped a penciled note on a $1 bill to a filling station attendant that she had been kidnaped. The note read:

"I have been forced at gun point. Help. Call South Bend, Indiana, 6-9124 collect, please."

The girl victim Beverly Jean Morey, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Glenn Morey, South Bend, was driving. Baney was getting ready to take the wheel.

Miss Morey, a former Purdue University student, said she had dated Baney for about a year but turned down his marriage proposal two weeks ago. She said he asked her to carry him to the bus station at South Bend in her automobile Wednesday night. She said he pulled a pistol on her and forced her to drive away in her car. She said they had driven on steadily for about 7000 miles until officers stopped them yesterday.

Glenn said both Indiana authorities and the FBI were investigating the case for possible kidnaping charges.

"He admitted it all right," Glenn said. He just said, "I was in love with her and I made her ride with me so I could take her to California and marry her."

"He's sorta mixed up," Glenn continued. "I don't think he's as much of a criminal as he is mixed up in love or something. The boy served in the Army three years. The federal officers are checking into his record there."

Officers found a .32 caliber pistol in the back seat when they stopped the car yesterday. The pistol was not loaded, but Baney carried bullets for it in his pocket, Glenn said.

Eisenhower to Dakota for Golf

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is down for a round of golf two weeks from today in South Dakota's Black Hills.

The White House announced yesterday that, during the President's western speaking tour next month, he will spend two nights and a day-June 11-13 at a game lodge on Davenport Lakes, near Sturgis, S. D.

The golfing will be during the day June 12 at the Lead Country Club, about 20 miles from the lodge.

Eisenhower's speechmaking begins June 10 at Minneapolis. He will spend the night at Minot, N.D., and speak the next day at Garrison Dam, N. D., and Rapid City, S. D.

After his visit to the lodge, he will fly to Hanover, N. H., where Dartmouth college will present him an honorary degree June 14, visit Oyster Bay, Long Island, N.Y., and return to Washington.
